Florence Davis.

Florence Davis, one of the favorite stars, will be the attraction at The Kentucky Wednesday, January 15.
Several elements of the comedy drama enter into the composition of "A Question of Husbands." In fact, the plot and its picturing are very close to natural life and had they been so it is quite possible that an element of tragedy would have been added. If the sagacious husband of Cyprienne had failed in his purpose of diverting his wife from her folly, it is quite possible that he would have used some effective, if not finally acting arguments with the petulant lover.

Florence Davis as Cyprienne is a typical woman of society. Her gowns are designed along exquisite lines and are models of the sartorial art. The movements of the play—and these are owned by Miss Davis personally—give a thorough representation of the scenes they are supposed to represent.
They are not mere stage settings, but for the most part an actual production.

The Davis company carries all the scenery and effects and no reliance is placed on the local stock material.
Miss Davis relies little on the make-up. She is a fine looking woman, not only on the stage but wherever else she may be seen. But on the stage she enhances the value of her beauty by an adaptation of her genius, producing from two causes a double combination of effects.

Miss Davis still has that favorite leading man, Elliott Dexter, among her support.

Mrs. Leslie Carter's First Critics.

It is commonly said that the critic rarely discovers latent talent in budding historians. He is supposed to be so busily engaged in looking for faults that any real talent is overlooked. Furthermore, when a stage aspirant, without the customary training appears, the natural inference is that the tyro is an upstart and lacking in all those qualities which go to make a successful player. Temperament is so rare that to find it in a beginner seems out of the question.

Consequently, when it appears, as is sometimes the case at rare intervals, the critic can hardly believe his own eyes and is inclined to doubt his own instinct. But that genuine stage talent will be recognized, even under the most adverse circumstances, is instanced in the case of Mrs. Leslie Carter. Prior to the night of her debut as a star at the Broadway theater on November 10, 1890, Mrs. Carter had never appeared before an audience. It is not too much to say that the critics went to the theater that night as to a Roman holiday. They expected, as they all admitted at the time, the usual fiasco. But here was a case where the unexpected happened. The criticisms make astonishing reading at this time. Nym Crinkle said in the World that "Mrs. Carter is almost clairvoyant in her temperament, with a mobile face, capable of every shade of expression. It was conceded that she possessed a volitive talent of unmistakable force. In the pathetic bits, she evinced the true heart-beat, and was touching and tender without strain of affectation." It seems almost inconceivable that this was written of an actress who had never before spoken a line in public.
Equally astonishing were the opinions of other writers. Franklin Fyles, then the critic of the Sun, said: "The debut of Mrs. Carter was not a fiasco nor a hare escape from a failure, not even a scant success, but the disclosure of an actress who rose into stage distinction with her first essay. Her first public performance was a remarkable performance." The critic

THEATRICAL NOTES

American Singers in Grand Opera.
An article in a recent number of the Broadway Magazine by Elsie Lathrop, discusses the interesting subject, "New York Girls Singing in Grand Opera," and makes some astounding revelations in regard to the barriers which were formerly placed before the American singer ambitious for a grand opera career.

In writing of the career of one of the Manhattan opera company, Miss Lathrop says that this New York prima donna was a member of the Metropolitan Opera House company under Maurice Grau, but was never given an opportunity to appear in an important role.

"She had," said the writer, "on a few hours' notice sung the role of Azucena to Emma Eames's Leonora in "Trovatore," in Philadelphia, but notwithstanding her success in this, Mr.
Grau had little confidence in American singers, unless they had long years of European experience. He once told a young applicant:

"If you had the most remarkable voice I had ever heard, no matter how much talent you showed, I would not engage you for New York unless you had appeared with success in Europe.
Make an appearance there, no matter in how small a city, then come to me and I will see what I can do for you."

That that opinion has changed, however, is indicated by Miss Lathrop in her introduction. She says: "The term 'American voice,' which was frequently hurled at us, especially by our English friends, as a reproach, has of recent years taken on a new meaning.
One eminent French singing teacher of world-wide reputation, Mme. Mar-chesi, actually waxed furious over the superiority which she cannot deny the American girls' voices.

"When Henry W. Savage inaugurated his English Opera company some years ago, the American girl had her first real chance to enter the grand opera field in her own country without having undergone years of foreign experience. Since then her opportunities have steadily increased until now each season's list of artists for New York numbers more and more Americans. It is interesting to note that many of the young singers who first appeared with the Savage company are now valued members of foreign opera companies."

Miss Lathrop's inquiry developed that the Empire state has contributed fifteen leading prima donnas to the world of grand opera. Five American prima donnas who gained their first recognition as members of the Savage Grand Opera company are now winning new laurels in Europe, while others are winning fame with those

TWO WOMEN EXHORTING BELIEVE RISK "HANTED"

People in Sleeth's drug store, Ninth street and Broadway, were startled last night by the declaration of two colored women, who were on their way home from church, bursting in, half fainting, with the declaration that the "rink is haunted. We dun seed de hant." It turned out that they were deeply engrossed in the subject of the hereafter and the immortality of the soul, when they passed the rink and caught sight of the phoney apparition that guards the entrance advertising the approaching ghost walk. They sprang across the gutter and ran down the middle of the muddy—beg pardon—graveled street to the first electric light.

CHARITY CLUB BUSY

Today business picked up at the Charity club headquarters, and Secretary Jay Toner had many calls for coal and provisions for poor families. Especially was the demand heavy for clothes, and winter wrappings. Mr. Toner says the supply is running low, and if anyone has any garments to give to the club, they will be called for and put to good use. Since autumn, the club has given away over 700 garments to deserving poor people in the city.

She combines attractiveness of personality with that of mental ability and is a talented musician.

Mr. Oliver is a leading young business man of Paris. He is the head of the drug firm of James & Oliver of that place, and is a young man of exceptional ability and popularity. After February 1 he will be associated with Dr. S. H. Winstead in the drug business of this city.

To Visit in Paducah.

The Washington correspondent of the Sunday Courier-Journal says:

"The most interesting southern event of the week was the marriage of Miss Katherine Taylor, the attractive young daughter of Senator Robert L. Taylor, of Nashville, to Mr. Hillman Taylor, a young Tennessee lawyer, and newly-elected member of the legislature. The ceremony occurred Wednesday afternoon at the Elbitt House. From Kentucky among the guests were Senator McCrory, Mrs. Kitchin, of Hopkinsville, who is spending the season at the National hotel, and Mrs. Ayres."

Mr. Matthew Hillman Taylor, the bridegroom, is a brother of Mrs. W. B. Mills, 2000 Jefferson boulevard, Paducah. He is a prominent young lawyer of Trenton, Tenn., and was a notable member of the Vanderbilt football team when attending Vanderbilt University. His bride is the youngest daughter of Senator Taylor and a girl of much attractiveness and talent. PREPARING FOR A DRY SUNDAY WHEN CAPTURED.

Calmly walking into the jug house of Sam Starks, 120 South Second street, Saturday night, an unknown young man picked up a case of whisky from the front of the store and walked out. The proprietor's attention was called to it, and he began a chase after the young man and the case of whisky. The young man had it on his shoulder when accosted by the proprietor, and after the case had been returned to the saloon the proprietor agreed not to prosecute him. The young man was a stranger but evidently he was preparing for a "dry" Sunday, as the case contained a dozen quarts.

MAY LOCATE HERE

Paducah is to have another factory, employing about 75 hands, as soon as a millman from Mississippi finds eight acres that suits him for a location. His mill turns out quarter-sawn oak for a factory at Shelbyville, Ind. He has been operating in Mississippi, but trouble getting the right kind of help and the unhealthfulness of his location decided him to move. On account of the rivers this is the best location he has found.

Miss Rosa Mercer will arrive from Jackson, Tenn., this week to be the guest of Miss Blanche Hills, of North Ninth street, and attend "Madam Butterfly" at the Kentucky theater Friday evening.

Interest To Women
Women as are not serious about their health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and engagements, which seriously tax their strength, as well as nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nerve. By its timely use, such serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeon's knife, would it be believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The Favorite Prescription has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy and almost painless.

OPTIMISTIC.

The tendency of the present is distinctly optimistic. Henry says Henry is reviving and a recovery has been had than could be expected a month ago. Improvement is favorable in every department. Money has finally been released from the hands of the government and is being put to work for commerce.

Along with the release of money has been a corresponding derangement in the market. The release of money has been a severe and has released large sums of money. The return movement of the interior has fairly been going on. There is an abundance of currency in the interior and a relative scarcity in New York.

He said: "If an uneducated man earns $1.50 a day for three hundred days in a year he does very well; and if he keeps it up for forty years, he will earn $180,000.00, or $18,000.00. An educated man is not generally paid by the day, but by the month and by the year. If you will strike an average of the earnings of educated men, beginning with the president of the United States, who earns $50,000 a year, the presidents of the insurance companies and of large railroad companies, and run down the scale until you come to the lower walks in point of earnings among educated men, you will admit that $1,000 a year is a lower average for the earnings of educated labor. For forty years you have $40,000.00, or $4,000.00 from $10,000.00, and the difference, or $22,000.00, must represent the value of a boy's time spent at school in getting education. You will all admit that the man who works with his hands at unskilled labor puts forth as much muscular effort as the man who earns his livelihood by his wits and education. Now if the $22,000.00 represents the value of time that a boy spends at school in getting an education, what is the value of a day spent at school? The average school life of every boy and girl in Massachusetts is seven years or 250 days each, let us say that it takes four years more to get a good education. Reckoning eleven years of 250 days each, you will find that the 2,750 days at school are equal to $22,000.00, and a simple division on the blackboard will bring it home to the comprehension of every boy that each day at school, properly spent, must be worth $8.00.

One director asks whether it is a violation of the compulsory law if a farmer keeps at home his eleven-year-old boy to plow, because it costs $1 a day to get some man to do the work. While he is putting $1 into his own pocket, he is robbing that boy of $10 in the shape of future earning capacity. Is not that high-handed robbery by a father of his own child?—American Motherhood.

Every sacrifice is both a test of sincerity and an expression of service.

Are You Sick?

Much sickness is due to a weak nervous system. Yours may be. If it is, you cannot get well until you restore nerve strength. Your nervous system is nature's power house; the organs of your body get their power from it. If the power is not there, the action of the organs is weak, and disease (sickness) follows. Dr. Miles' Nervine cures the sick because it soothes the irritated and tired nerves and gives the system a chance to recuperate. Try it, and see if you do not quickly feel its beneficial effect.

"I was given up to die by a leading doctor. I got one of Dr. Miles' books and found that Dr. Miles' Nervine fit my case. From the very first dose I took I got better. I am better now than I have been for years, and do all my own work on the farm. That's what Dr. Miles' Nervine has done for me, and I am glad to recommend it to others."

THE WORTH OF A BOY.

What is a boy worth? What is an education worth? An Indiana jury awarded $599.99 for the killing of a boy. A friend of mine who is a superintendent in West Virginia, called the award an outrage. I asked him why. He answered, "To say nothing of the value of the boy's personality and all that a boy is to his father and mother and home, the commercial value of the boy's time at school is more than the award of that Indiana jury." I asked him how he made the calculation. He said, "You find the value of a boy's time at school by subtracting the earning of a life of uneducated labor from the earnings of a life of educated labor." Then he gave me a calculation I have used this year before every institute, for I am anxious to get it into the daily papers, to have it carried to every schoolroom, and put upon every blackboard, so that the pupils may carry it home and discuss it with their parents, wrote N. C. Schaeffer, in the American Journal

All Sign Plots.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 13.—The great wave of temperance sweeping northward from the south has struck the west, and one of the results is that the Northwestern railroad system of 10,000 miles has gone "dry." 40,000 employees of the road having sworn off.

On the last night of 1907 the employees of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, reaching from the Great Lakes to the Rocky mountains, became absolute "teetotalers" and signed a pledge to that effect. And each man pledged himself to use his personal influence toward securing the signatures of others who have not yet agreed to quit the use of intoxicants.

When the Northwestern railroad began reducing its force to the regular winter basis this year the orders were that the drinking men were to be discharged first, no matter how competent they were, and that the temperance men were to be the last to go. It set the men to thinking.

The Clyde ran through herself Friday night about 250 miles up the Tennessee near Hamburg, and got in this morning on one engine. The bolts in the follower head gave way and this knocked out the cylinder head. She will be repaired and leave Wednesday for the Tennessee.

The Jim Wood got up the Ohio as far as Hurricane Island, on her way to Louisville with a tow of empties, and had trouble with her boilers and was compelled to come to Paducah Saturday night and be repaired. The trouble was "bag-boller," caused by scales collecting on the inside of the boiler and allowing the fire underneath to make the boiler red hot in that place, permitting the pressure of steam to make the boiler swing and crack if not attended to immediately. She was fixed and got away early Sunday morning.

The Margaret got away for the Cumberland this morning after ties.

The Joe Fowler got in from Evansville last night and got away at noon for the same port.

The Blue Spot went up the Tennessee after ties.

The Russell Lord arrived from the Tennessee Saturday night with ties.

The Harth went to the mines at Caseyville after a tow of coal for the West Kentucky Coal company.

The Memphis News-Scimitar says: "Fire, starting about 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, completely gutted the dredge boat Henry Flad, of the government fleet, stationed about one mile below the Memphis bridge. Officers of the fleet say it is impossible to estimate the loss until it is ascertained whether the boilers have been damaged, but they place the minimum at $50,000, while the maximum is in the neighborhood of $175,000. There was no insurance. Every particle of woodwork on the vessel was consumed by the flames. The boat was burned to the water's edge, only the steel hull remaining. The cause of the fire is not known, and probably never will be, as when it was discovered the boat was already enveloped in flames, and there was no means of ascertaining just where the blaze started."

Old Time Packets.

Edward Edwards, of St. Louis, has a directory which gives the names of boats and their masters that ran out of that port in the fifties. It was published in 1854. Following is a partial list:

Hot Air Fan.

An interesting German invention is a fan driven by hot air, and so simple in construction and economical in working that it is said to compete very successfully with electric fans. The hot air is generated by a kerosene lamp holding a quart of oil. A small glass chimney on the lamp fits into a large metal chimney, which conducts the air current to the engine driving the fan. The speed of the fan is regulated by turning the flame up or down. The whole apparatus weighs about 30 pounds.
